March and the Lion.

Something better than the Old Saw.
 The saying about the lion and the lamb in March often proves false, but there is a better one which is literally true. When March comes in and finds you taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to purify and vitalize your blood, you may expect, when it goes out that it will leave you free from that tired feeling and with none of the blotches, pimples and eruptions which manifest themselves because of impure blood in the spring. If you have not already begun taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for your spring medicine, we advise you to begin today. We assure you it will make you feel better all through the coming summer.

Importance of Moisture.

The yield of beet on any soil is largely influenced by moisture; the number of tons per acre increase up to a certain limit and then diminishes, until when the soil is saturated with water the yield is zero. The yield diminishes very considerably, if during any period of the beet's development there is a deficiency of moisture. It is now declared that the production of organic substance is in direct ratio with the percentage of moisture in the air. The influence of light upon the quantity of sugar elaborated in the beet has long since been demonstrated; the organic substance diminishes when requisite solar rays are furnished. If the light is too intense the chlorophyll action is to a certain extent neutralized, and this is followed by a decrease in the assimilation. Temperature is also an important factor; up to a certain limit it stimulates the function of the plant, but if too high or too low the reverse is the case. When there is a great variation of temperature from day to day the organic percentage increases. Electricity does not appear to have any important action on the beet's development. The amount of plant food contained in a soil has under all conditions a very great influence.—Ex.

United States Supreme Court Says Texas Anti-Trust Law is Valid.

The opinion sustained the decision of the State court to the extent of affirming them and was opposed to the contention of the oil company, but it did this upon the ground that the State law imposed a condition which the oil company had accepted and hence was without ground of complaint.
 The opinion was handed down by Justice McKenna, who, reviewing the case, says that the Water-Pierce company was a private corporation incorporated in Missouri, which had begun business in the State of Texas in 1888. The suit grew out of the charge that the oil company violated the statutes of the State of 1889 and 1893 against illegal combinations in restraint of trade, thereby incurring a forfeiture of its right to do business in the State.

The trial was first held in the district court of Travis county, in which the verdict was against the oil company. On appeal to the court of civil appeals of the State, this decision was affirmed, and it was brought to this court on a writ of error. The basis of the action was the Standard Oil trust, organized in 1882, and it was shown that its intention was to control and monopolize the petroleum industry of the United States in restriction of trade, dividing the markets of the United States into various sub-divisions, awarding Texas to the Waters-Pierce company. The decision of today was based upon the proposition which was submitted to the jury in the original trial.

Justice McKenna said: "The transactions of local commerce which were held by the State courts to be violations of the statute provided in contracts with certain merchants in which the plaintiff is interested, required them to buy oil exclusively for it, and from no other source, or buy exclusively of the complainant in error, and not to sell to any person handling competing oils, or to buy exclusively from plaintiff in error, and to sell at a price fixed by it."

"The statutes," he continued, "must be considered in reference to these contracts. In any other aspect they are not subject to our review on this regard, except the power of the State court to restrict their regulation to local commerce, upon which a contention is raised."

Judge John W. Burton, representing the democratic state committee, and Chairman Wesley K. Walton, of the Republican state committee, held a conference Tuesday on the matter of new voters and those voters who have moved since the last registration.

The two agreed that there could, under the law, be no new registration for the special election. They agreed, too, that now one could vote who was not registered. As to those who moved since the last general election, there is still doubt, but it was mutually agreed between the two that if such voters returned and offered to vote where they were properly registered at the last election, no objection would be raised.

An agreement to this effect is being drawn up and will be signed by the chairmen of the respective committee.

CANCER CURED

—AND A—
LIFE SAVED
 By the Persistent Use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"I was troubled for years with a sore on my knee, which several physicians, who treated me, called a cancer, assuring me that nothing could be done to save my life. As a last resort, I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after taking a number of bottles, the sore began to disappear and my general health improved. I persisted in this treatment, until the sore was entirely healed. Since then, I use Ayer's Sarsaparilla occasionally as a tonic and blood-purifier, and, indeed, it seems as though I could not keep home without it."—Mrs. S. A. FULDS, Bloomfield, Ia.
